wright of Sacramento, an old friend of the family, were with her when she died.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crocker left town in their special car last night, on a journey of pleasure to Mt. Shasta, and it was at the moment their train left Oakland that the apoplectic disorder first evinced itself. Mrs. Crocker was Indeed so far from inticipating any indisposition that she had promised to be present at the proposed Pacific Union va. Bohemian base-ball match on Friday afternoon, and even after Dr. Fisk reached the house, about 8 o'clock last night, her illness was not thought important. She slept well last night, and even at 3 o'clock this afternoon she was arranging to go out today.

At 3:45 this afternoon she was in entire possession of her faculties, and the physician himself did not at that time perceive any reason for immediate apprehension. The end, however, came about 4 o'cleck, and was as painless as it was unexpected. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crocker were at once advised by telegraph of their bereavement, and replied that they would be in town early tomorrow morning.

The members of Mrs. Crocker's family are as follows: The eldest son is Col. Charles F. Crocker, second vec-president of the Southern Pacific Company, who is at present in Europe. The second son, George Crocker, who was the only one of the family present at the deathbed, has been a large dealer in land and cattle until recently. The third son is William H. Crocker, president of the Crocker-Woolworth Bank. The only daughter is Mrs. C. B. Alexander of New York, who spent the present summer in California. The deceased, whose malden name was Mary A. Deming, was born at South Bend, Ind., and at the time of her death was 6i years and 11 months of are. She was married to Charles Crocker in 1851. She came to California with her husband the same year. They lived in Sacramento 2 years, moving to this city in 1874. The game itself was one of the poorest exhibitions witnessed on California league grounds, and the audience was disgusted with the playing. Sacramento, with the exception of a few members of the nine, played like a team of amateurs. San Fran-cisco won by a score of 11 to 1. Operations will be begun im-mediately after the players' meeting next Monday. Grounds for the New York team have already been leased."

BURIED IN THE DESERT. Young Singletary's Remains Found

and Interred. SAN DIEGO, Oct. 27.—[Bp the Associated Press.] Four miners from the Cocopan piacer diggings have reached Campo, and stated that on the desert they found the body of young Singletary, the Los Angeles lawyer, who met death on the desert some months ago by being deserted by his com-panions. The poor fellow's remains were eight miles and a haif from water.

He evidently died in a frenzy of agony, as his hat was in one place and his overalls, shirt and boots were scattered in different directions. The remains were nearly nude. The body was completely munified, the desert heat having prevented decomposition and having preserved the corpse perfectly. Coyotes had mutilated the legs somewhat, but otherwise the corpse was preserved. They buried him where they found him. He evidently died in a frenzy of agony, as Duane's Alleged Connection with the Cronin Murder.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—[By the Associated Press.] Martin Duane, who, it was rumored last evening, had been arrested at St. Joseph, Mich., was being talked up tonight as an Important surgert in the Cronin case. as an important suspect in the Cronin cas It is understood his description correspond It is understood his description corresponds to that of the man in whose company Cronin disappeared on the night of May 4th. Chief Hubbard, in an interview, expressed surprise at the report that Duane was in custody. He intimated that Officer Collins had been sent to investigate rather than to arrest. The idea was apparently for Collins to ingratiate nimself with the suspect, and before making any move to endeavor to obtain information which might prove of value.

This is the second time Klahr has been beaten since his name Klahr has been beaten since his name gained prominence with the case, although at the first time the young fellows who were arrested for beating him claimed that they did so because of insulting language. Klahr asserts that he was not drunk last night.

Druggist Burlington, whose departure for Europe followed the disappearance of Dr. Cronin and elicited considerable comment, has returned. He reached Chicago on Wednesday night, and in an interview says that he came back two months sooner than he intended, his object being to clear himself of any suspicion. He denies that his departure had any connection with the Cronin case, and says his movements in Europe are open to investigation.

The two men are Kentuckians, and allied to the McCoy faction of outlaws, whose murderous feuda with the Hattields are familiar to the public. McCoy and Haley were concerned in the recent killing of Al Brumfield, and the wounding of his bride.

Bookmakers Swindled DETROIT (Mich.), Oct. 27.—It is learned tonight that the firm of Millman & Reilly, bookmakers, have been swindled out of nearly $15,000 during the past week by sharp sports, who had a telegraph operator confederate. The operator cut the wires near the city, and would hold the book-makers' advices until his confederates in the city had time to place their bets on win-ning horses, whose names they would re-ceive direct from the track.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—A 47-round prize-fight took place today at Hammond between Louis Michall, the "Belgian wonder," and W. J. ATHENS, Oct. 27.—[By Cable and Asciated Press.] The marriage of Prince Sophie of Prussia and the Duke of Spar Sophie of Prussia and the Duke of Spate of Crown Prince of Greece, was solemnized to day. At 11 a.m. the wedding procession headed by a squadeon of cavalry, let the palace. The first eight carriage contained royal families and other representatives of nobility. Then cam a gorkeous state carriage containing Queen Olga and the bride, drawn by all these because covered with all the carriage containing the conta black horses covered with silver tra On either side of the carriage, or back, were King George, the D was lired with troops, behind wh packed a soild mass of spectator greatest enthusiasm was manifested packed a soild mass of speciators. The greatest enthusiasm was manifested by the populace. The handsome uniform and jeweled orders of the Kaiser and the marnificent diamonds worn by Augusta Victoria attracted universal admiration.

The scene in the cathedral was a brilliant one. The center aisle of the church was strewn with roses. The service occupied more than an hour. Princes Victor and George of Wales held golden crowns over the heads of the bride and bridegroom.

The wedding party returned by a different route and arrived at the palace at 1 o'clock, when the marriage was again solemized. The ceremony this time was in scordance with the Lutheran rite, and took place in the King's private chapel. During the ceremony Prince Henry of Prussia and Princes Victor and George of Wales alternately held the bride's coronet, while the Czarewitch, Prince Waldemar and Prince George of Greece held the coronet of the bridegroom.

At 4 pm. the Duke of Sparta conducted his bride from the royal palace to his own palace, amid storms of "zetoe" from the populace.

The diplomatic body was invited to a gala banquet at the palace this evening. The vicinity of the palace was ablaze with illuminations and bengal free.

A NOBLE CHARITY.

Poor Children of Livery The children's cottages are located in West Dorby Union, and consist of 13 cottages, a superintendent's residence, porter's lodge, probationary house, infirmary, echoohouse, swimming bath, public hall, storehouse and workshop. All are handsome and substantial buildings of brick and stone. The cottages are divided into boys' and girls' homes, each one accommodating 30 children.

homes, each one accommodating 30 enudren.

The "girls' families" are presided over by "mothers," all widows, who receive an annual salary of $100 and rations. All the work is done by the children and "mothers." A man and his wife manage each family of boys, whose homes are similar to those of the girls. The man must have a trade, and be able to impart knowledge of it to the boys, who are in this way taught some useful occupation.

Consul Shearman says the institution is believed to be the only one of the kind in

RAILWAYS AT WAR,

Crossing Fight Between Two Rival Roads. Chookston (Minn.), Oct. 27 .- [By the Associated Press. A bitter crossing fight between the Duluth, Crookston and Northern and Manitoba roads, which has been in progress for two days, was brought to a focus this morning. The Manitoba had en-gines and heavy trains above and below focus this morning. The Manitoba had engines and heavy trains above and below the proposed crossing, and evidently determined not to let the other road across. By daylight, however, the Duluth road men had their lines laid to within a few feet of the Manitoba tracks. The forces of the latter road were then ordered by Superintendent James to prevent the crossing being made. James was immediately arrested and carriedoff, notwithstanding stout resistance. The Manitoba forces then wrecked an engine and flat cars on the proposed crossing, whereupon the wrecking crew was also arrested. The Duluth officials then, after some consultation, decided to await the decision of the injunction case tomorrow.

CHRYSANTHEMUM FAIR.

Outline of What They Are How the Chrysanthemum was Created, Poetically Speaking-Woman in History Graphically Portrayed.

As stated in yesterday's issue of this paper, the opening evening of the Chrysanthemum Fair at the Simpson Chrysanthemum Fair at the Simpson Tabernacle tomorrow evening will be characterized by a representation of a cantata composed for the occasion by Mrs. R. D. P. Widner. The composition, which is entitled "The Birth of the Chrysanthemum," promises to be exceedingly interesting. There are 25 characters in the piece, and the chorus cantata composed for the occasion by Mrs. R. D. P. Widner. The composition, which is entitled "The Birth of the Chrysanthemum," promises to be exceedingly interesting. There are 25 characters in the piece, and the chorus has been drilling for some time past and are well up in their parts.

The plot is about as follows: A number of children appear as fairies and more about the stage in exercises, when they are frightened by the sudden appearance of beetles. A thistle patch hard by will afford them a safe refuge and they run to it. The prickly plants catch their dresses and tear them to shreds. Their magic wands are also lost. In despair they seek the Goblin cave, and there beseech the White Stork to aid them in recovering their loss. They are informed by the White Stork to aid them in recovering their loss. They are informed by the White Stork that the Goblin cave, which is the abode of evil, is not the place for them to seek the recovery of their dresses, and he directs them to the Temple of Truth, to which they immediately repair. Truth hears their story and sends Patience with them, who tells the disconsolate fairles that their dresses (the past) can never be recovered, but should they seek new garments, they will be furnished them. She then directs them with Love to Chrysalis Chapel, where they are furnished with wings and transformed into gorgeous hued butterflies. Love then examines the thistle to see if some way can be dayled to destroy the thorns and at the same time have destroyed the fairies' dresses. She then transforms the thistle into a most beautiful chrysanthemum, which grows up never again te entrap fairies.

On Wednesday evening a series of tableaux, entitled "The Centuries, or Worman in History," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Emma they are a follows:

Seene 1—Boadices. the British Queen, who have been outsraced by Roman cruelly, appears in the royal charlot, accompanied by her two daughters, and appeals to her countryme to crise and crush care and and foreign discontry sold and

On Wednesday evening a series of tableaux, entitled "The Centuries, or Woman in History," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Emma Hillman. The tableaux, six in number, are as follows:

Scene 1—Boadicea, the British Queeu, who has been outraged by Roman crueity, appears in the royal charlot, accompanied by her two daughters, and appeals to her countrymen to rise and crush out the Roman invaders.

Life, and the Branch that was thrown into the wilderness Marah. Then I pour in the tears of Bethany and Golgotha; then I stir them up. Then I kindle under the caldron a fire made out of the wood of the cross, and one drop of that potion will cure the worst sickness that ever afflicted a human soul. Mary and Martha shall receive their Lazarus from the tomb. The damsel shall rise. And on the darkness shall break the morning, and God will wipe all tears from their eyes. You know on a well-spread table, the food becomes more delicate at last. I have fed you today with the bread of consolation. Let the table now be cleared, and let us set on the chalice of heaven. Let the King's cup-bearers come in. Good morning, Heaven! "Oh," says some critic in the audience, "the Bible contradicts itself. It intimates again and again that there are come in. Good morning, Heaven!
"Oh," says some critic in the audience,
"the Bible contradicts itself. It intimates again and again that there are to be no tears in heaven, and if there be no tears in heaven, and if there be no tears in heaven, and if there be no tears in heaven, how is it possible that God will wipe any away?" I answer, have you never seen a child crying one moment and laughing the next; and while she was laughing, you saw the tears still on her face? And perhaps you stopped her in the very midst of her resumed glee and wiped off those delayed tears. So, I think, after the heavenly raptures have come upon us, there may be the mark of some earthly grief, and while those tears are glittering in the light of the jasper sea God will wipe them away.
How well He can do that. Jesus had enough trial to make Him sympathetic with all trial. The shortest verse in the Bible tells the story: "Jesus wept."
The scar on the back of either hand, the scar on the arch of either foot, the row of scars along the line of the hair, will keep all heaven thinking. Oh, that great weeper is just the one to silence all earthly trouble and wipe out all stains of earthly grief.
Gentle! Why His step is softer than the step of the dew. It will not be a tyrant bidding you to hush up your crying. It will be a Father who will take you on His left arm, His face gleaming into yours, while with the soft tips of the fingers of the right hand He shall wipe away all tears from your eyes. I have noticed when the children get hurt, and their mother is away from home, they go right past me and to her; I am of no account.
So, when the soul comes up into heaven out of the wounds of this life, it will not stop to look for Paul, or Moses, or David, or John. These did very well once, but now the soul shall rush past, crying: "Where is Jesus? Where is Jesus?" Dear Lord, what a magnificent thing to die of Thou shalt thus wipe away our tears. Methink it will take us some time to get used to

AN UNWARRANTED ATTACK.

The Herald yesterday jumped with oth feet on S me remarks made by that gentleman at San Pedro on Saturday, while in conversation with Senator Stanford and the committee. The remarks which specially aroused the ire of our Secondstreet contemporary were to the effect that the whole State was not worth the amount asked for the improvement of San Pedro harbor—$5,000,000—and that Los Angeles should be removed to San Diego, where there is already a good

Now it stands to reason that, even upposing Mr. Frye entertained such radical views in regard to things here as his remarks would indicate, he certainly—after making all possible allowance for the "plain, blunt way of expressing himself?' attributed to the Senator by the Herald in its local columns - would be sufficiently diplomatic to conceal, veil or gloss over such extremely depreciatory opinions, when standing in the pres-ence of a number of our leading citiens, whose faith and interests in this section are equally great, and who were engaged in the double effort of making his and his companions' stay pleasant, and of soliciting their favorable consideration for our needs. In fact, it is scarcely necessary to state what was plainly apparent to all except the Her--that Senator Frye's remarks were of a jocular character, and in-ended to be so understood. Further than this, Mr. Frve assured a Times representative that he has worked and voted for every appropria-tion that has been made for the Pacific Coast, and will continue to pursue that liberal policy as long as our demands are characterized by the reason and modesty which have hitherto been displayed. believes that San Pedro can made a good harbor, and that either that or San Diego will become one of the very important ports of the United Senator Frve is a keen observer. and we may expect that he will do more for us at Washington than may be done by some of our previous visitors, who have favored us with promises of a glitteringly general character. It was owing to his persuasion and insistence that the party risited San Pedro at all, and it is therefore particularly unjust to accuse him f discourtesy or lack of sympathy in this matter.

REMARKS ON A SUBJECT.

If the financially imperiled and legally jeopardized Person of the falling Spring-street organ knew how eagerly THE TIMES' beautiful picto rial poem, entitled "The Governor" was sought after by San Bernardino people, the Person would be even unhappier than he is now.

The Spring-street organ is again cul-The Spring-street organ is again cultivating Gov. Waterman and his supposed grievances against Trix Trixs. This journal is not (as is probably suspected by its steady readers) an enthusiastic admirer of the Governor, and does not profess to have his closest, besom-buried confidence; and yet we venture the prediction that he will decline again, the urgent cell to again. cline again the urgent call to pay money for the championship of the Spring-street organ. The Governor, whatever his other shortcomings, is sagacious in money matters. He is a good judge of values, both mining and ournalistically saccharine.

We observe, also, that the Springstreet organ is abjectly, fulsomely and nauseatingly cultivating Mr. Senater Stanford. Without pretending to share the Senator's confidences, we yet F. In the same organ we note the continued appearance of sporadic outbursts of bogus patriotism, with sudden and suspicious professions of de-tion to the flag. We have this to say about that: If the honor of the Old Flag, or the good name, fame and interests of the veteran soldiers who so nobly defended that flag in the war for the country's preservation, depended upon the championship of the off-color Person of the Tribune who is making so much "fuss" about them, then flag and soldiers alike would be in a sorry predicament-in a desperate plight, from which extrication would be hope

There ought to be a reasonable number of streets reserved from the encroachments of the street-car companies. Philadelphia needs more and better street cars, but it would be better off with less street-car tracks. Instead of incumbering every street with their tracks, the street-car companies would carry about as many passengers and serve the city better if these tracks in the residential portion of the city were restricted to every other street, and the number of cars doubled on the tracks remaining.

A WIFE-BEATER

And the Pious Way in Which He Celebrated Sunday.

A telephone message was received at police headquarters shortly after 5 that an officer be sent to Seventh and Mateo streets to arrest a man who was beating his wife. Officer Hewston was dispatched with the patrol wagon, and upon arriving at the place, found a crowd of people, who directed him to a small dwelling-house on Hermosa street, near Palm street. In the place were John Harrigan and his wife, the latter looking pretty well battered up. Inquiry from several persons, who saw the affair, revealed the fact that John had been amusing himself by beating and kicking his wife and throwing her down. F. J. Kalley, who lives opposite the Harrigan residence, stated that he had wituessed the beating, and at one time saw Mrs. Harrigan on the ground and her brutal husband kicking her, and about to jump upon her, until yelled at and threatened. A number of eye witnesses corroborated the above story, but Mrs. Harrigan did not seem to care about swearing out a warrant for the arrest of her husband, and, seeing this, the fellow began to vaunt and boast loudly that he would beat her again, and proceeded to apply a choice selection of profane phrases to his wife, the officer and every one about the place, and defied arrest. He raised a disturbance and attracted the entire neighborhood by his noise.

Officer Hewston then placed him under arrest for disturbing the peace and took him to the station. He will explain his conduct in the Police Court today, and if his wife will swear to a complaint charging him with battery he is likely to have a hard row to hoe.

ANOTHER ONE. Chief Glass received a call yesterday Chief Glass received a call yesterday from Mrs. Harrity, who claimed that her husband had beaten her. The Chief discovered that the bealing had been done by both parties, and informed Mrs. Harrity that an officer would be near at hand to keep her spouse from injuring her. They went at it again, however, and the man was stopped by his son before he had done any great amount of damage. About 6 o'clock Officer Church happened to find Harrity at his house on Pearl street, and escorted him to the police station.

This was more than the lit-ttle lady could stand, and she first slapped the masculine Ham in the face with a brace of quails that she held in her hand, and followed up her advantage by dealing him two or three prize-ring blows with her fist. SENATOR FRYE TALKS. The party was considerably worried over the treatment of Senator Frye, over the treatment of Senator Frye, chairman of the Committee on Commerce and several other important committees, and is one of the Senate, by the Herald While at San Pedro Saturday Senator Frye took a deep interest in the harbor investigation, and asked a number of pertinent questions. He held a map of the harbor in his hand and kept Gen. John R. Brierly busy answering questions for fully thirty minutes. During this examination Senator Stanford, who had just made his appearance from his car, approached the group, which was composed of Senators and members of the Chamber of Commerce who had just made his app from his car, approached the which was composed of Senat members of the Chamber of Co Committee. from the Senator's lips in all seriousness, no one present would have given the matter a second thought. In conversation with a representative of The Times last night, Senator Frye laughingly remarked:

"Why the thing is perfectly absurd. I am not only very friendly to this coast, but I have and will do all in my power to advance your interests. We coast, but I have and will do all in my power to advance your interests. We of the East have always been with you, and you need never fear any opposition to just demands. Your only enemies come from the Middle States. Why, sir, I have always worked and voted for appropriations for this coast, and my associates know that I insisted on visiting San Pedro harbor. I do not believe there was a man within the hearing of my voice at San Pedro yesterday who believed that I was opposed to the harbor appropriations. I am convinced that a fine harbor can be made at that that a fine harbor can be made at that point, and the man who thinks you do not need a harbor must be devoid of common sense."

MRS. CROCKER'S DEATH. At 6:30 Senator Stanford, who was not feeling well, left the Jones mansion for his private car, and was about to retire, when he was handed a dispatch from San Francisco announcing the sudden death of Mrs. Charles Crocker at her residence in that city. It was a terrible shock to the Senator, for only a few days ago the wife of his late partner was with the Senatorial party and seemed to be in the best of health. The Senator took Mrs. Crocker's death very hard and retired almost immediately. Collect Taxes Semi-annually! Los Angeles, Oct. 26.-[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] For some years past there has been an occasional suggestion of something better than an annual collection of State and county taxes. Now, however, I learn that the same thing has been tried in Ohio for thing has been tried in Ohio for twenty years or more past, and found to be so beneficial that the people of that State would by no means abandon it. They collect taxes semi-annually, in December and June, and the advantages are many:

First—It saves the taxpayer the disbursement of all his annual tax at once, letting him off for six months with half of it, thereby leaving him the other half for the other necessary expenses incidental to the holiday season.

Second-It saves the locking up, and consequent withdrawal from circula-tion, of that proportion—say in this county half a million dollars—of the State and county taxes that are now arbitrarily called in, sent to Sacra-mento, and there locked up in the State vaults, thereby absolutely retiring from circulation that much of the people's money that ought to be out and doing good.

Third—It saves the financial strain reddent to mixing this receives the strains.

Fourth—It saves the rush and confusion of receiving it all at once at the Tax-collector's office, and, presumably, a great part of the extra clerk hire and expense of that occasion.

a great part of the extra clerk hire and expense of that occasion.

There are many other points of advantage that might be adduced. If there are any objections I do not know them, and shall be glad to hear them. The fact that the great State of Ohio has found this plan desirable in its workings, and that it would not now willingly go back to the old way of annual nayment, is proof to the workings, and that it would not now willingly go back to the old way of annual payment, is proof to the younger State of California that there is something in it worth trying. Charms of an Insane Asylum Commissioner's Life Depicted.
[Banning Herald, Oct. 28.1
For some time of late we have been basking about the edges of the radi-ance that illumes the whereabouts of the Insane Asylum Commission. We have whiffed the incense of attention that has exhaled for them. We have quaffed of the libations that have been brewed for them, and our humble cance has danced on the swells in the wake of their proud course. Our soul has become fired with a desire to serve has become fired with a desire to serve the State in some such pleasing capac-ity. In the first place, we pine for the physical comfort of five hundred miles of jaunting in a wide variety of vehicles, and at sundry hours of the afternoon and morning, over the roads, byways, and through the canons and morasses of the San Bernardino Valley and otherwheres. It is universally known that it is the acme of rest to be bumped and jostled in an open carriage over country roads. And again, we like the exhilaration of being on the wing. In a feather bed tonight, on a straw mattress tomorrow night, and the next sleep on the billowy surface of a broken-springed hair mattress. The proud distinction of being pointed out by the ragmuffins of the street as one of the Insane Commissioners—that would gratify us. To be embalmed in the ephemeral literature of the day as "A tool of the Governor," "An intriguer,?" "A betrayer of public trust," "A creature of corporations," "An individual who would sell the comfort of the uniortunate insane for a few dollars"—all these graceful compliments would come to our nostrils like perfume. And then to get into that delectably hospitable place, the city of San Bernardino, and be seduced by a cigar into a two-hours' homily on the excellencies of a patch of desert; to be button-holed, to be argued to, persuaded, deluged with political wisdom and overwhelmed with stale facts that you knew before your mother weaned you; to be whisked off to private rooms, and disturbed in your meals, and mentally and morally dismembered by a hungry and zealous horde of people anxious to dispose of real estate—all this would be biscuits of satisfaction and maple syrup of swest consolation. Yes, there must be commissions in the New Jerusalem—else how can our worthy aspirations be realized? of jaunting in a wide variety else how can our worthy aspirations be

Some Netable Pictures by Los An geles Artists - Notes from the Paris Exposition-Music-Prepa rations for the Winter's Work-

Among the many artists worthy of mention in Los Angeles is Miss E. P. Bixby, who studied for two years and half abroad, and who is familiar with the best masters of Paris and other foreign cities. Of her many delightful interpretations of Nature, we recall to mind a most lovely painting, entitled "The Forest of Fontainbleau," after Allonge. This was painted by Miss Bixby in Paris in 1888. It is a marvel in its soft and mellow lights, and in the texture of its rocks and trees. Gray lichens and green moss cover the huge boulders, and the extent of the huge boulders, and the extent of the perspective delights you. You feel as if you might wander away into the deeps of forest mazes, and thread the green-walled asises to the music of the cricket's chirp and the soft rustle of the breeze-swept leaves. A breath of wind would stir the dust in the beaten path. The picture holds the soul of the woods. The treatment is strong and bold, yet tender in effect, and the technique is admirable. Such pictures take you out into the woods, and Nature herself might almost be deceived into believing it a bit of her own handiwork.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Borglum have returned from their bridal tour, and are again to be found in their pleasant again to be found in their pleasant studio. Their brushes have not been idle though they were rehearsing the old, old story, the beauty of which seems to have lent inspiration to their efforts. They show many delightful sketches of views along the coast. From the easel of Mr. Borglum is one which will catch the eye of every art-lover. It is a large landscape, which he has most aptly christened "Solitude." There is a sketch of windy coast, and a view of the wide, dark sea. Over them bends a cold, gray sky, with here and there a break of blue within its cloudy deep. The prominent thing in the foreground is a gnarled and scraggy cypress-pine, with its funeral-like pennons of graygreen moss. It is the only thing to break the dreary perspective. It is the awful "solitude" of the wind-swept land and sea. Words could not portray the solitariness of the place more vividly than the artist has done. The wind has bent tree and grass seaward, and sands wind has bent tree and grass seaward, and the wind-tossed weeds and sands all seem tending toward the hungry all seem tending toward the hungry deep.

Among the most eloquent of Mrs. Borglum's sketches is "A Bleak Day." It is a sketch taken at False Bay, near Pacific Grove. It is full of strength and character. There are the great gray-brown rocks, at which the sea is gnawing, and over which the white spray sweeps. The strong tides are coming in, and the sea is full of their swift-running forces. Between the brown ledges, as if angry at the rocks for intercepting its path, it is churned into one great mass of white foam. The spray, too, is tossed like a wraith into the air, and over all is a cold, gray, fogry sky. It is a bypical "bleak day," vividly presented upon the canvas.

Mrs. S. I. Mayo has a pretty studio where the walls are well covered with the productions of her brush. Of all the many pictures "The Oriental Water Carrier" perhaps appeals most strongly to one's sympathies; it is so purely human. In the foreground is a tall, lithe, swaying figure, full of supple grace, with Nature's own lines drawn about her form. She has large, dark, dreamy eyes looking into the distance, as if to catch glimpses of the historic past. Upon her shoulder the brown jug of the Orient rests, kept in place by the opposite hand swung gracefully above her head. A twisted cord is thrust through the handles, and tied about the slender neck of the jug. The dark hair falls in wavy luxuriance upon her shoulders. There is a red necklace about her neck and the bodice is open low at the ronded throat. Long golden ornaments are pendent from her shell-like ears. Her dress is a warm brown, covered in front by her long white apron. Behind her is the sea, with rippling lights, and the curve of the shore, with its distant mountains, and nearer the treeclad hills, with villas built upon their slope. It is a picture that the eye delights to rest upon.

Paris Exposition:

Probably no pictures in the exposition galleries attract more attention than the original drawings loaned by the Century Magazine Company.

If E. A. Abbey's picture, 'Washington's Farewell,'' were the only one there, it would be worth one's while to go and see it. This is not the only good one, however, for there is not a drawing in the collection that is not up to the standard of excellence.

Among the purchases made by the French Government for the National Museum at the salon of 1889 is the picture "Sad News," by Frank C. Penford of Buffalo. The American artists whose works have had the honor of being bought by the French Government are very few. I can call to mind only W. T. Dannat, Walter Gay and Henry Mosler.

The Barye exhibition in Paris has been a revelation even to his most ardent admirers. The versatility and industry evidenced by the enormous array of his work are almost beyond belief. With all the resources at the command of our American collectors of the productions of the great French sculptor of the brute creation, I am afraid that we shall be able to make but a poor show compared with that at the Ecole des Beaux Arts. but a poor show compared with that at the Ecole des Beaux Arts.

MUSIC.

The Outlook in Local Musical Cir cles—A Coming Concert.

There has been no special activity mong local musicians during the week, except the preparation for coming events and the usual routine of practice and lesson-giving. Indications show, however, that there will be wide organization for musical study in varied directions, and ample inter in varied directions, and ample interest in private study, during the coming months.

An unusually fine concert will be given at Ontario, on the night of November 5th, under the auspices of Chaffey College, for the benefit of the college library. The complete programme will be given later. For the present a list of the performers will suffice. These are: Miss Jennie Winston of Pasadena. Dr. von Bouhorst of Pomona. Mr. William Pinth.

Mrs. Emma Stratton, and Prof. Blasins and his newly-organized string quar-tette. Angeleños can leave here at 4:40 p.m. and return by 9 the following morning, the hall, depot and hotel all being at brief distances from one another.

Sig. Farini, and his little band of soi-disant stars, is still in San Francisco; still active and still singing such parts as "Count de Luna" and "Mephisto" in stray acts from an opera, assisted by his faithful pupils, several of whom are Angeleños.

Emma Juch, the beautiful singer, who was heard here with the National Opera Company, has organized a strong company for grand English opera. They have an ensemble of over one hundred people.

Chevalier Scovel, the leading tenor of the Boston Ideals, will be accompanied on his tour this season by his wife, two children, a governess and his own attendant, who plays his accompaniments for practice or rehearsal, or cooks spaghetti in the most artistic manner.

Rubinstein has written something music," in its strict sense, is a sealed book.

A series of lectures on musical history, illustrated by singers, violinists and planists, has been begun at Pasadena. The musical courier for the seases son is Mrs. A. W. H. Buell. An exhaustive programme has been prepared as follows: "The Opera and Virtuosi: Palestrina, Scarlatti, Stradella, Purcell, Bach and Glück;" "Handel, Haydn and Mozart;" "Beethoven;" "Weber, Schubert and Schumann;" "Berlioz, Mendelssehn, Moscheles, Chopin and Liszt;" "Wagner, Rubinstein and Brahms;" "Modern Instrumentalists" and "German Songs and English Ballads." Even if nothing original is written, or nothing new discovered in the work, there is always fresh impulse given in the direction of private endeavor, and a better understanding of the rendition of private endeavor, and a better under-standing of the rendition of good music and a more reasonable apprecia-standing of the rendition of good music and a more reasonable appreciation of it.

The last number of the Werner's Voice Magazine, published in New York, gives a very pleasant notice of Miss Julia Long, who was the vocal teacher of the Ellis College, last year. Miss Long is now in New York, teaching the Cappiani method.

Miss Mollie Adlila Brown, who has been at the New England Converyatory, and with private teachers for the faculty of Hanna College.

Mrs. J. D. Cole, who went abroad last May, reached New York last week, and will arrive in Los Angeles on Saturday next, resuming at once her classes, at her old studio. Mrs. Cole made very delightful and instructive visits to the great centers and sources of musical life abroad; visiting daily, in Paris, the studio of Della Ledie; attending the great Wagner festival at Bayreuth, and taking a number of lessous in London from Shakespeare, the noted "ballad" teacher. Any one who knows Mrs. Cole's single-nearted devotion to the divine art will rejoice for and with her over this fresh store of musical riches. Mrs. Cole will be one of the faculty of the Ludlam School.

THE DRAMA.

Attractions for This Week-Notes and Personals.

Next Thursday evening Patti Rosa will commence an engagement of three nights and Saturday matinée. Thurs-nights and Saturday matinée. Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday matinée the new play, Margery Daw, will be the bill, and Saturday night, Love and Duty.

The Bostonians will soon add Don Quixote to their répertoire. The valiant knight will be personated by Mr. Barnabee.

Bronson Howard has cause to be a proud man. He now has the two most successful plays on the road. Stuart Robson is doing a tremendous business on the road with The Henrietta, and Shenandoah promises to be good for a run of a year in New York.

Patti Rosa is one of the few American artists who can be credited with Being constantly enlarged.

Rosina Vokes's répertoire is crowded with brilliant gems of comedy. She does Tears, My Uncle Will, A Double Lesson, The Old Musician, In Honor Bound, My Lord in Livery, A Circus Rider, Pantomime Rehearsal, A Rough Diamond and many others.

Instead of W. H. Rochester being horsewhipped by Bettina Padelford in Portland it was the entire company that got the lash.

They laugh at My Milliner's Bill at the Baldwin; but ouiside of the theater a milliner's bill is no laughing matter. William Castle, the well-known tenor, has opened a school of music in Philadelphia, and will, if it pays, leave the operatic stage for good.

Robert Hilliard playse Barnes," the easy-going American, in Mr. Barnes of New York, written and dramatized by Mr. Gunter of San Francisco.

The plot of Mr. Barnes of New York is very thrilling and exciting, and is a story of the terrible vendetta.

FRESH LITERATURE.

ODERN MIRACLE, by James FRANKLII FITTS, No. 13 of the "Manhattan series" o popular American novels. Paper, 12mo. Price, Eccuts. (Published by A. L. Burt, No. 56 Beckman street, New York.) The author of this latest issue of Mr. Burt's excellent series is well and favorably known to the lovers of pure and entertaining fiction. The present volume is quite worthy of his reputa-several of whom are Angelefios.

Emma Juch, the beautiful singer, who was heard here with the National Opera Company, has organized a strong company for grand English opera. They have an ensemble of over one hundred people.

Chevalier Scovel, the leading tenor of the Boston Ideals, will be accompanied on his tour this season by his wife, two shildern, a governess and his own attendant, who plays his accompaniments for practice or rehearsal, or cooks spaghetti in the most artistic manner.

Rubinstein has written something for which he has coined the strange name of "operatorio." It is called "Moses," and doubtless deals in patriarchal themes and scenes.

Outside Notes.

On November 11th San Francisco will be in the proud possession of the great Gillmore, with his renowned band, a chorus of 500 voices, famous eastern soloists, "electric artillery and an anvil corp." Those enormous jubiles, while in one way a mass of "sound and fury," are yet wonderfully stimulating to the masses, and have a far-reaching and beneficial influence over thousands to whom "classical music," in its strict sense, is a sealed book.

PEN PICTURES IN SUMMERLAND.

Lippincott for November is a number of more than ordinary interest. The standard of this magazine has greatly improved with the past two years, and as a consequence it is destined to grow in favor with the more scholarly class of readers. The current number contains a complete novel from the pen of Robert Montgomery Bird, entitled "A Belated Revenge." This is followed by a well-digested article on "The Violin." by Edward Heron-Allen. R. H. Stoddard furnishes a most interesting paper on "William Cullen Bryant," and in addition to these the table of contents is full and varied. Robert Burdette has undertaken to furnish a monthly installment of wit, and in this number he succeeds most admirably. It is usually regarded a difficult task to manufacture wit to order, but no one can complain of the genuineness of the current supply. (J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia.)

St. Nicholas begins, with the current number, a new volume, with new type and more pages. It presents the appearance of the most perfect typographical and literary excellence. The introductory article, "Coursing with Greyhounds in Southern California," is from our well-known and popular writer, Prof. C. F. Holder of Pasadena. The sketch is in the Professor's happiest vein, and sets us all aglow with desire for action. "A Pueblo Rabbithunt" is from the ready pen of C. F. Lummis of THE TIMES, and there is not a boy or girl Trader of the St. Nicholas but would like to thank him for his delightful sketch when once they have read it. "Dorothy Dot's Thanksgiving Party," by Ada M. Trotter, will be pronounced as "just too interesting for anything." Ahl the brave girl! "Jokers of the Menagerie" is one of those delightful papers that John R. Coryell knows so well how to write. It is full of the best of pen pictures of different animals. The boys and girls of the "St. Nicholas" will all learn to know and love Mr. Coryell yet, through his writings. The poems are all good and some are very funny, as for instance, that of "The Little Gnome," by Laura E. Richards.

Marcus Mayer places at a low estimate the number of miles he has traveled as 1,000,000. The territory includes South America, France, Mexico and other countries seldom visited by

LOOK OUT FOR OUR BARGAINS,

Sensible Hints and Recipes for the Household-Dishes That Will Delight the Inner Man-The Home Table-Notes.

I do not propose to talk much this week, for I have run across a lot of sensible hints and recipes for housekeepers, and I am inclined to give them to you nearly in full. Let Susie and Grace and Mabel go into the kitchen some Saturday, roll up their sleeves from off their white, dimpled arms, and see if they cannot spend a delightful half day in concecting dishes that shall delight the inner man. That must be seethed and comforted and fed, if you would have happiness and full content reign in the domestic circle.

I have some times wished that stomachs were not a necessary appendage of this sublunary state of existence; but after all, if they were not, I am fearful that we should be the loosers thereby. Just call to mind all the pleasant confidences that come so pleasant confidences that come so naturally when we are enjoying a dainty repast. Some of the sweetest things ever breathed in the world round voice at table. Then how often would papa and mamma sit down with all the children about them if it were not for this same family dining table? Family gatherings would be few and some households, I ear, did not hunger draw them to-

So blessings on the necessity for eating. Pile up the good things upon the table, making sure first that they the fable, making sure first that they are not only appetizing but nourishing and wholesome. Go about your cooking as you would any other duty, and glorify it by doing it cheerfully and well. Let "papa" feel that there is no table like the home table—none where the coffee has quite such excellent flavor, where the meat is done to such a perfect turn, and where there are so many cheerful and loving hearts to welcome him.

But now for these receipes and other suggestions:
There is not a more luscious dish than a baked quince. Bake it till well done, then cut it open, remove the core and spread it with butter and sugar. Eat while hot.

Snow Drops.—One cup of butter, two cups of sugar, whites of five eggs, one small cup of milk, three full cups of prepared flower; flavor with vanilla and nutmeg; bake in small round tins. Those in shape of fluted shells are very pretty.

Clam Soup .- Boil a shank of veal several hours in three quarts of water, strain off the liquor and boil one cup of rice in it. About twenty minutes before dinner time add, with their juice, 15 clams, chopped line; season to taste. No milk should be used.

Thoroughly aired milk will keep much longer than ice-cooled milk, for as soon as the influence of the ice is removed and the temperature goes up the germs that produce lactic acid manifest themselves at once and the manifest themselves at once and the milk sours very quickly; and even when milk is cooled it should first be given a thorough aeration.

Ribbon Cube.—For the dark part one-half cup of butter, sugar and molasses, yolks of four eggs, one-third cup of sweet milk, one-half teaspoon soda, two cups flour, one cup chopped raisius, all kinds spice. For the light part one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, whites of four eggs, one-third cup sweet milk, one-half teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon cream tartar, one and one-half cups flour, flavor with lemon; bake in two tins and put the cakes together with jelly or frosting, dark one in the center.

Black Fruit Cake.—One pound each sins, all kinds spice. For the light part one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, whites of four eggs, one-third cup sweet milk, one-half teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon cream tartar, one and one-half cups flour, flavor with lemon; bake in two tins and put the cakes together with jelly or frosting, dark one in the center.

Black Fruit Cake.—One pound each of butter, sugar, flour, almonds and citron; two pounds each of raisins and currants; one dozen eggs, one teaspoonful mace, one tablespoonful of clinnamon, one nutmeg, a wineglass each of brandy and wine; cut up the fruit, not too fine, roll in flour to separate it, and beat it into the eggs after they have been beaten perfectly light. Cream the butter and sugar together and add to the eggs, etc., stir in the flour lightly and bake for three hours in a moderate oven, or until well done, which can be told by trying with a fine knitting-needle or broom splint. One-half this recipe makes a good-sized cake.

How to Cook Bananas.—Peel rather green bananas, rub them over with a green bananas.

green bananas, rub them over with a split lemon, place in a pan, with red wine poured over them, until it stands three-quarters of an inch deep. Drop in six cloves and a few sticks of cinnamon, three tablespoonfuls of granu-lated sugar and a tablespoonful of but-ter, cut in bits. Bake in a quick oven until light brown. This is the most delicious way of cooking bananas.

A correspondent writes as follows:
"I wonder if Susan Sunshine or her friends pickle their own olives, and if the following is the best rule: When the olives are nearly ripe, place them in fresh water. Change the water every 24 hours, until the bitter taste disappears from the olive. Then place the olives in strong brine until thoroughly pickled. Then put them in jars, etc., with weaker brine.

"Another rule says: Steep the olives in lime water instead of fresh water.

THE ELIXIR OF LIFE.

"Do you believe in the Elixir of Life?" I asked of a prominent New York physician, recently.

The Doctor thoughts moment, carefully, and said: "Certainly I do, but not in the way in which Doctors Brown Sequard or Hammond have been describing it. All that has been said in the press of the land for the past months proves that something it. All that has been said in the press of the land for the past months proves that something it. All that has been said in the press of the land for the past months proves that something it. All that has been said the land has been said that the land has proved that the land has proved that the land has been said in the past of the land has been said in the land has been said the land has a the option habit. There is but one way to properly reach or sus aid the vitality and life, and that is through the stomach, and there is no discovery of modern times, which, if rightly used does this so thoroughly, keeps back disease and prolongs left as pure whiskey. Mind out last pure whiskey, for all cles in jurious. The land has been suffered and streamfer and the settlem without injurious reaction or my land. It cones up and streamfers the settlem without injurious reaction or new life in the seed, and restore it to those in middle life. For wom nespec all, who are weak, languid or suffering as most those in middle life. For wom nespec all, who are weak, languid or suffering as most women are, it as lands in value of the practice and cannot but be believers in a true and sensible cliair of life like this pure article of which I have been speaking."

The Doctor humself seemed to be a good example of the truths he advanced, for his in perfect of the comment of the pressed by the oleanness.

news, with leading articles on her business interests every morning be-fore breakfast. During the last week, besides the news items and pic-tyrial history of events, the fol-lowing subjects have been prented: The City Clubs and Societies; The Fire Department (illustrated), The Public Library (illustrated), The Water Question, Pasadena Sports (illustrated), The Pasadena Climate, Business Pasadena (illustrated), besides short articles and editorials on every possible topic of public interest. Every one of these articles went into every town and city in Southern Cali-fornia, was read by at least 30,000 per-sons, and hundreds were sent east to convert the heathen. It is not too much to say that Pasadean is becom-ing the best-known town in Southern ing the best-known town in Southern California, and nowhere in the United States is there a city of this size hav-ing a morning paper with the circula-tion of the new morning daily, the Pasadena edition of THE TIMES, going as it does, everywhere, the leading paper of Southern California.

Ir is said by a few business men that apid transit will enable our citizens o go to Los Angeles and buy their groceries, their hats, their woolens, dry goods and other things. This is not only a pessimistic way of looking at things, but utterly unsupported by precedent in any place or country. If Mr. Hubbard, the grocer; Mr. Wood, e druggist; Mr. Machin, the haberdasher; Mr. Permar, Mr. Halsey, Mr. Conrad and many other merchants and advertisers in The Times keep a poor stock of goods Pasadena buyers will go to Los Angeles; but here is the point: the business houses of this city offer their customers just as satisfactory bargains, and as good selections, as can be found in Los Angeles, so that there is no inducement to go out of town. The result will be that local pride and the fact that home that local pride and the fact that home goods are as good as can be bought will prevent a loss in this way, and, in point of fact, the large numbers of residents, brought by the rapid-transit roads, will increase local business. The people want the best. If they can get that home they buy there; if they cannot, they will go elsewhere. The same argument was used in Harlem, N. Y. It was claimed that down town stores would take the trade; the contrary was the result. The local trade increased a thousand per cent, and the grumblers were lost sight of in the roar and hum of new-born mercantile life.

OUR VISITORS.

THE SENATORIAL PARTY'S TRIP TO PASADENA.

guished Guests - Incidents in Four Political Lives - Frye, Hearst, Stanford, Waterman.

Every young man has at some time or should have, an ambition to dis-tinguish himself as a statesman. To follow this out, many take up the study of law; others plunge immedi-ately into political life; many hear the buzzing of the bee about their bonnets, but few reach the goal of their desires, and those who are fortunate generally attain it late in life.

but we reach the goal of their desires, and those who are fortunate generally attain it late in life.

The sentlement of applying our Sunday ways to business and life every day in the week. This is true religion.

The lives of the several distinguished men who have recently honored us tell interesting stories of business and political struggles, and are suggestive to our children and young men that the road up through the political pastures to honors of State and finance are not to be gone over at a hand gallop, but taken carefully, step by step.

The action, or expression, of Messrs. Throop, Townsend, Young and others of the City Council in the library question is one that will find a response in the mind of every citizen. As we said yesterday, our library and schools are identical in their work, and should receive the hearty support of the city, and it appears from the report in another column that the library still lives.

The work of a newspaper for a week would make a big book in the world's history, and it is not uninteresting sometimes to look backward. The Times gives its Pasadena readers the news of the world and all the Pasadena news, with leading articles on her business interests every morning before breakfast. During the leat west of the state of the leat was born in 1830, and graduated from Bowdoin in 1850. In 1861 we find him a member of the legislature, and in 1867 he was a Lincoln elector, Mayor of Lewiston in 1870-189. From here he passed into Congress, and was relected six times, going into the Senate in 1881 to fill the vacancy caused bythe resignation of Blaine. Reflected again, he stands a prominent figure; a proposition of the Republican National Committee, and has always been a warm supporter of Blaine. Senator Frye is an LLD, and the support of the Republican National Committee, and has always been a warm supporter of Blaine. Senator Frye is an LLD, and the proposition of the Republican National Committee, and has always been a warm supporter of Blaine.

1872 he has been a member of the Republican National Committee, and has always been a warm supporter of Blaine. Senator Frye is an LL.D. and a trustee of Bowdoin.

Robert Whitney Waterman, the Governor of the State, who came with the party, has had equally as active a life. Born in 1826, in New York State, we find him at 20 a clerk in a store in Sycamore, Ill., and in 1846 he was a merchant in business for himself. His first political position was as postmaster of Genoa, Ill. This was in the famous '49, and in 1850, being unable to resist the mning fever, he came to California and engaged in mining on the Feather River. Tiring of this, he returned East, and in 1853, when Frye was beginning his career in the Legislature, he was publishing the Wilmington (Ill.) Independent. The next year he became a delegate to the famous convention at Bloomington, Ill., that gave the name to the Republican party. Here he formed friendships with Lincoln, David Davis, Lyman Trumbull and Richard Yates, and in 1856 teok a vigorous hand in the Fremont campaign, in which Gov. Sheldon of Pasadena was a delegate. In 1858 he became engaged in the Senatorial fight between Douglass and Lincoln, gaining much valuable political experience.

In 1873 Gov. Waterman came to Southern California and made his home in San Bernardino county. Here he was extremely fortunate in discovering ore in what is now known as the home in San Bernardino county. Here he was extremely fortunate in discovering ore in what is now known as the Calico mining district, and his mining property has, it is generally believed, made him several times a millionaire. In 1886 he was the Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, and was elected, and at the death of Gov. Bartlett in 1887 took the executive chair. He is thorougly identified with the interests of Southern California, is an extensive ranch and mine owner, president of the San Diego and Eastern Railroad, etc.

Senator George Hearst came to Cali-fanicoad, etc.

As a location of the same year with comment was fornia overland the same year with Gov. Waterman, hailing from Frank-Gov. Waterman, hailing from Franklin county, Mo., where he was born in 1820. He was a farmer's boy previous to this, but in California he became a member of the mining firm of Hearst, Haggin, Tevis & Co. Speculative mining was their specialty, and they were the largest private mine-owners in the country for some years. Senator Hearst became a skilled prospector, and is identified with the advance of the science of mining on this coast. He became a ranch-owner, acquired large the science of mining on this coast. He became a ranch-owner, acquired large holdings, purchased the Examiner, one of the leading papers of the coast, and now has interests in all directions and is an extremely wealthy man. In 1865 he was a member of the Legislature, received the vote of the Democratic minority in the Legislature for United States Senator in 1886, and was appointed by Gov. Stoneman to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Miller; so he took his seat in 1886, and was reëlected. Senator Hearst is a man of wide experience in business matters, and one of the wealthlest men in the State.

Senator Leland Stanford, another in the State.

Senator Leland Stanford, another prominent member of this Pasadena party, was also brought up on a farm, in the valley of the Mohawk, N. Y. When he was about 20 years old he began the study of law, and commenced to practice law at Port Washington in 1849. Two years later, or in 1852, which is about the California turning point with all those Californians, he started west, the loss of his law library and other property being one incentive.

He began mining in Michigan Bluff, Placer county, and in 1856 he went to San Francisco, engaging in the mercantile business, which has resulted in a fortune estimated by some as high as a fortune estimated by some as high as 350,000,000. Mr. Stanford made his a fortune estimated by some as high as $50,000,000. Mr. Stanford made his first political move in 1860 as a delegate to the Chicago convention that nominated Lincoln. He became interested in railroads, early seeing their value to this coast, and in 1861 became the president of the Central Pacific. In this year he was elected Governor of the State, serving until 1863. He has made his mark in every position he has had. He gave his personal supervision to the Pacific road, bringing it over the mountains and building 530 miles in 293 days. His interests in ranches, stock, etc., are valuable and far-reaching. In 1885 he was elected to the United States Senate, where he still is. The death of his only son was a sad blow, and in his memory he has erected the noblest monument ever conceived for such a purpose in this or any country, namely, the Leland of the matter, and after due consider the matter, and after due consideration the meeting adjourned without action, to meet again on the second Wednesday in January, 1890, when it will again come up for discussion.

It Speaks, Itself.

[The Journal.]

Commencing last Sunday the Los Angeles Times prints a Pasadena edition every day. This is a legitimate mutually beneficial to the publishers and this city.

The Times' Pasadena department says that our weather is "under charge of the private bureau of Mr. Harold thanning." If Wednesday's weather is a sample of what we are to expect from such management, we rise to move a change.

Stanford, Jr., University. For this purpose Mr. Stanford gave the State of California $20,000,000; the college to be built at Palo Alto. The curriculum will include besides the ordinary studies instruction in every possible branch that may or will be of use to young men who seek the highest intellectual standard in life. The university will graduate the civil engineer, the telegraph operator, mining expert, naturalist, farmer or journalist; in fact, embraces in its walls all that is found among the colleges of the world, and its value as a factor in the development of intellectual California cannot be estimated today.

A RUNAWAY.

A Grocery Wagon Backs Into Surrey. On Saturday afternoon while Mrs. Mason, an aged lady, was down town making some purchases, she had a narrow escape from instant death. While starting to drive away, in com-pany with her two grandsons, from in front of Hyde's tea store, a grocery wagon backed into her carriage upsetting it and throwing out the occu pants. The horse made a break to run pants. The horse made a break to run away, but was captured by several bystanders before it had run half a block. One of the boys in falling landed on his face, but escaped with a few slight scratches. Mrs. Mason was unhurt, but considerably shaken up. The horse and buggy were not damaged in the least.

A Church Query.

Rev. Dr. Ormiston was engaged as "stated supply" for the Presbyterian pulpit of this city for one year. But, after a few months' service, he desired to be elected and formally installed to the full pastoral relation. A congregational meeting of the church was held last Wednesday evening to consider the matter, and after due consideration the meeting adjourned with-

THE 28TH OF OCTOBER IN HISTORY.

THE 28TH OF OCTOBER IN HISTORY.

Late in September, 1778, Washington strengthened his position on Harlem Heights, throwing up intremehments across Manhattan Island. Meanwhile he was on the point of losing part of his army by expiration of service. Unwilling to attack the intremehments, Howe determined to get in the rear, and so marched up the sound to Throgg's Nock, while the fleet passed up the Hudson to cut off communication with the western bank. To resist this movement, Washington occupied the causeway leading up from the Neck where Howe was encamped, upon which Howe crossed to Pelham and marched to New Rochelle, where he was joined by Knyphausen, and decided to occupy White Plains. In the mean time Washington proceeded northward to head off the British, sticking to the high hills along the Hudson, and occupying a series of entrenched camps to White Plains. Continual skirmishes took place between the armies, and Washington reached White Plains first, where he threw up breastworks and intrenched a camp at Northcastle. On the morning of October 28th, after a series of skirmishes, 1000 militia occupied Chatterton Hill. Hamilton was sent with two pieces of artillery. The British made the attack in two columns, and having planted 20 guns on a slope south of White Plains village, they built a bridge under cover of the Dattery, crossed the Bronx and attacked Chatterton Hill. Hamilton's two pieces made them recoil at first, but being reinforced, they captured the hill, when the Americans retired to Washington's camp. The American intrenchments were hastily constructed out of earth and straw, but Howe dared not attack them, and while he was waiting for more troops, Washington, under cover of a rainstorni; Fetired to Northcastle. The American and British loss in the skirmishes in battle was about 300 each.

and British loss in the skirmishes in battle was about 300 each.

MARSHAL EMANUEL DE GROUCHY was born in Paris, October 28, 1766. He commanded a division of cavalry in 1792, fought under Moreau in Piedmont in 1798, was wounded at Novi and was captured by the Austrians. After his release, Grouchy contributed to the French victory at Hohenlinden, and as a cavalry commander gained distinction for skill and bravery at Jena, Tylau and Friedland. But Grouchy's earlier services are forgotten by Frenchmen by reason of his strange conduct in the campaign of 1815. Previons to the battle of Waterloo in June, 1816, he was stationed by Napoleon near Wavre, and during that great battle refused, though entreated by his officers, to participate in it, alleging contrary orders from the Emperor. For this conduct he has been bitterly censured by the French and charged with treason. He died in 1847.

At the close of the last century, and the beginning of the present, the border-land between France and Germany was infested by desperadoes, who were a terror to all the peaceful inhabitants. War, raging with great fury, year after year, had brought the Rhenish provinces into a very disorganized state, which offered a premium to every species of lawless violence. Bands of brigands roamed about, committing every kind of atrocity. They were often called Chauffaurs or Scorchers, because they were accustomed to hold the soles of their viotims' feet infront of a fierce fire, to extort a revelation of the place where their property was concealed. Some times they were called Garroters or Stranglers (from garrot, a stick which enabled the strangler to twist a cord tightly around the neck of his victim). SCHINDERHANNES, or John the Scorcher, was the most famous of these robbers. His real name was Johann Buckler, and he was born in 1779. As a boy he joined others in stealing meat and bread from the commissariat wagon of the French army at Kreuznach. He was often caught, but as frequently escaped. His ingenuity and audacity led to his being chosen as leader of a band. The career of Schinderhannes virtually terminated on May 31, 1802, when he was finally captured at Limburg; but his actual trial did not take place till October, 1803, when he was condemned to death on the 28th of October, and executed on the 28th of the November following.
